Description

KUDA! [Kulture+Urbanism+Design+Architecture] is based in Barcelona and focused on Smart Strategies within the city, as digital service design and innovation through creating the city from the human factor and applying new uses to existing spaces to transform them into smart environments. Making technology and data reach the last mile. Our expertise has led us to integrate innovative service design propositions on ICT integration within the city, increasing the awareness of technology and sustainability on the city and new city models.
